Poe's Prophecy of Wellman.

Many years ago Edgar Allan Poe published in the New York Sun his famous balloon hoax. As there was no cable communication between this country and Europe at the time, he was able to deceive thousands of persons with his brilliant fiction of a successful voyage by a dirigible gasbag in three days from North Wales to Charleston, South Carolina. Strangely enough, the equilibrium of the present day was forecast in Poe's guide rope, which, according to the imaginative view of the author of the hoax, was "suffered to trail from the car," and prevented the balloon "from changing its level in any material degree." The narrative ends thus, "We are in full view of the low coast of South Carolina. The problem is accomplished. We have crossed the Atlantic—fairly and easily—crossed it in a balloon! God be praised! Who shall say that anything is impossible hereafter? Who, indeed today, in view of the increasing marvels achieved by the pioneers of the sky, would say so? Providence Journal.

Turn a Draught to Good Account

Often in winter you dare not open a window, even though the room be warm, because the cold air makes a draught that is dangerous. With a Perfection Oil Heater there need be no danger from draughts. Open the lower part of the window a little, put the Perfection Oil Heater in front of it, and the cold draught will be turned into a pleasant, healthful current of fresh air. The gives just as much heat as you desire. It is safe, odorless and smokeless. Has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove to clean and drop back. Burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device therefor; it can be easily and quickly unscrewed for reworking.

An Indicator shows the amount of oil in the font. Has a cool handle. Filler-cap is put in place like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong and durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

SUIT FOR $10,000 IN CIRCUIT COURT

Brought by James Talcott Against Tracy Waller—Trial Opens Before a Jury.

Final battle, was joined in the circuit court of the United States at Hartford on Wednesday noon, in an action which dates its genesis back in the last century. The litigation deals with two cities, Hartford, and the title of the suit is Action-at-Law No. 494, James Talcott against Tracy Waller. It is on trial before Judge Platt and jury.

In the bill Mr. Talcott complains that in July, 1893, he was a creditor of the firm of Orlo Atwood & Sons, located in New London. On the 21st of August the firm made an assignment as insolvent debtors and commissioners were appointed to pass on the creditors' claims. Mr. Talcott says that he was a creditor to the amount of $54,244.51 for money loaned and that he was credited with security to an amount which reduced the balance in his favor to about $30,000. Mr. Talcott retained Mr. Waller to take legal steps in his interest before the commissioners of the state.

Mr. Talcott's claim was disallowed and Mr. Waller was instructed to appeal. Mr. Talcott asserts that Mr. Waller failed to act with reasonable care in prosecuting the appeal. He says that Mr. Waller especially failed to cause the appeal to be entered on the docket of the superior court for New London county. An allegation is made that through the failure of Mr. Talcott lost the right of appeal. It is asserted that if the appeal had been prosecuted with reasonable care the dividend which Mr. Talcott would have received from the insolvent estate of Orlo Atwood & Sons would have been $5,000.

In the answer it is declared that at the time the firm assigned as insolvent debtors and for the next two years Mr. Talcott had in his possession a large quantity of merchandise consigned to him by the firm which he had not credited upon the advances made by him to the firm and that at no time in which he could lawfully appeal did he convert the property into cash and credit it. It is further set up that at no time in which he could lawfully appeal was he a sufficient legal creditor of the firm. July 20, 1894, Robert Colt and William A. Gilbert of Stonington took an appeal to the superior court from a valuation made by the commissioners on certain securities in which they were interested as trustees of the estate. Mr. Waller supposed that this acted as a full appeal from all the doings of the commissioners and that he could raise a question under it about any act of the commissioners which he wished to attack. It is declared in the answer that on March 16, 1895, Mr. Waller filed a statement of Mr. Talcott's claim and that, although this was stricken out by the superior court, he exercised care.

Damages of $10,000 Are Sought. Joseph L. Barbour is the counsel for Mr. Talcott. Major Hadlai A. Hull and Charles B. Waller of New London are attorneys for Mr. Waller, who is a son of former Gov. Thomas M. Waller and a brother of Charles B. Waller. All the attorneys in the case are well known in politics.

Summons in on the jury were F. S. Armstrong, Franklin O. W. Bates, B. P. Young, Sterling, William LaBelle, Killingly, Elbert S. Potter, Voluntown, Charles E. Ruell, Eastford, Alphonse Chesnon, Windham, Charles E. Chapman, North Stonington. In the afternoon the counsel looked over the papers for the purpose of selecting those points on which they agreed. The trial will be resumed today.

TWO HUNDRED YEARS IN GROCERY TRADE

Five Men Have Served About Forty Years Each in Stonington.

There are five men now engaged in the grocery business in the borough of Stonington who have averaged forty years that business at their present locations. They are Samuel H. Chesbro, who entered his father's store in 1851, and succeeded the latter in 1886; George F. Pendleton, who began in 1866 and eventually succeeded his father, Moses Pendleton; Frank Trumbull, who began in 1875 and succeeded his father, Horace N. Trumbull; Byron J. Gardner, who established his business in 1880; and James H. Stivers, who came to Stonington from New Britain with his father, John R. Stivers, in 1880, and has been at his present stand since that time, having succeeded his father at the latter's death.

In each of these instances, with the single exception of Mr. Gardner, the present proprietor assumed charge upon the death of his father and has been in the business uninterruptedly ever since. It will be seen that Mr. Chesbro began fifty-nine years ago, Mr. Pendleton forty-four, Mr. Trumbull thirty-seven and Messrs. Gardner and Stivers each thirty. The total business is, therefore, 200, and the average forty.

Arnold-Howe Wedding on Wednesday—Too Active Dog Causes Hunting Party Disappointment.

At the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Howe in Yantic on Wednesday noon their daughter, Alice May, and Charles M. Arnold were united in marriage by Rev. Jerome Greer of Niantic. Only one of the relatives and friends were present at the ceremony, and at the breakfast which followed. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Arnold left for their new home in Pomfret Center.

Hunters Lose Big Coon.

Guide Loughlin of this town was at the head of a very enthusiastic gathering of local sports who recently journeyed to Pendleton's woods on Wauecus Hill, where they at once started a big coon which covered a considerable distance before being treed. The dog which was used in treed the coon attempted to follow his game up the tree, but after reaching the crotch he became lodged, which prevented him from continuing the chase. It took all of the energy of Mr. Loughlin and his men to extricate the hunter, which caused the loss of the coon, as it quickly sped from tree to tree and escaped.

Local Notes.

I. Belmont of Pascoag, R. I., has entered the Yantic mill.

WEDDINGS.

Taintor-Thayer

The social event of the season thus far occurred on Wednesday afternoon, this being the wedding of Miss Ruth Thayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thayer, and Charles Frederick Thayer of Washington street, and Nelson Case Taintor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Taintor of Hartford.

The ceremony was at Christ Episcopal church at 3 o'clock in the presence of relatives and friends. The floral decorations were a dignified arrangement of green and white. The altar flowers were white chrysanthemums. Chrysanthemums and garlands of laurel were used in the chancel, and the pews reserved for immediate relatives. During the half hour preceding the ceremony the assembling guests were entertained by the program rendered by Organist William F. Habekottke: Serenade-Braga; Nuptial Dances; Barcarolle-Hoffman. At the joyful strains the bride and groom entered and proceeded up the main aisle. First came the ushers, Charles W. Gross of Hartford, a cousin of the groom; Melvin H. Walker, Jr., of Westboro, Mass.; J. Bradford Ward, of Westboro, Mass.; and the groom, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Allyn L. Brown and Robert C. Johnson of Norwich. Following them came the bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Hall and Miss Elizabeth Pullen, and the maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Rachel Thayer each accompanied by her father. The bride was accompanied by her father, Mr. Thayer. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, his brother, James Taintor, of Hartford, and by the rector, Rev. Neilson Poe Carey, who impressively performed the service. The wedding song was played by the organ. The bride and groom were seated during the service. The bride and her attendants made a prettily picture in their dainty white and lavender costumes.

The bride was handsome in a gown of white satin marquisette with trimming of old lace. Her veil of antique lace was caught with lilacs of the valley, and she carried white Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. She wore a crown of flowers. The groom was in a suit of blue and white, and he carried a bunch of lilacs. The bride and groom were seated during the service. The bride and groom were seated during the service.

Most Enjoyed Way to End a Bad Cold.

Surely Breaks the Most Severe Cold and Ends Grippe Misery in Just a Few Hours.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pope's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippe or break up the most severe cold within the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

You distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable grippe symptoms leaving after the very first dose. It promptly ends the most miserable headache, neuralgia, pains, coldness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pope's Cold Compound is the result of three years of research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which has been conclusively demonstrated to be ineffective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and safely as this. It is a cure for colds or any other ailments, or a bad after-effect of a 25-cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

The Capitol Dome.

The capitol dome at Washington is the only considerable dome of iron in the world. It is a vast hollow sphere weighing 8,000,300 pounds. How much is that? More than 4,000 tons, or almost the weight of 70,000 full grown persons, or about equal to 1,000 laden coal cars of four tons each, which, if strung out one behind the other, would occupy a mile and a half of track. On the very top of the dome the allegorical figure "America," weighing 13,985 pounds, lifts its proud head high in the air. The pressure of this dome and figure upon the piers and pillars is 14,477 pounds to the square foot. It would, however, require a pressure of 755,286 pounds to the square foot to crush the supports.

An Historic English Castle.

Longlat castle, which is said to be the first well built house in England, was erected by Sir John Thynne, and its construction occupied twelve years, from January, 1567, until 1579. The first royal visitor to Sir John's noble mansion was Queen Elizabeth, and the story runs that the owner was not very anxious for his sovereign to see his home, as she might ask him where he obtained the money to build so stately a house. Sir John Thynne, who was knighted after the battle of Pinkie, was the factorum of the Protector Somerset, and it is said that he built Longlat from designs prepared by his fallen master for a house of his own.

Queer Way to Display a Trouseau.

An Arabian bride is arrayed in all her dresses, one over the other. She is perched on a high stool, so that they all hang down over it, and one by one they are taken off with much display and admiring comment from the guests. The last is, of course, the most beautiful. The bridegroom is hidden in some corner where he can see his future wife's dowry, which, however, he may not touch.

Blue Eleven Does Good Work Against Freshmen and Scrubs.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 19.—Secret practice by the Yale football squad has been eliminated for the present at least, and the student body and the public saw the men in action on the field today for the first time since the game with Holy Cross, nearly two weeks ago. The presence of their followers seemed to put new life into the varsity team, and in 25 minutes of scrimmage four touchdowns were made, two against the freshmen and two against the scrubs.

In addition to the touchdowns Captain Daily kicked a goal from the 35 yard line, which was one of the best seen on the field since Kennard scored the winning four points for Harvard two years ago. The scoring against the freshmen was done by Greeley and Baker on a line plunge and an end run, and against the scrubs by Deming on line plunges.
